GERMAN ELECTIONS.

BERLIN, April .7

Opening the electoral campaign Herr Stresemann reiterated the impossibility of continuing A man's heartbeats broadcast from Pittsburgh the Micum contracts. He vigorously protested Germany's incapacity being made the starting point for a fresh construction of passive resistance which he declared is how Paris threatens to interpret the discontinuance of the contracts. Herr Stresemann asks if the old game is to begin anew just when the experts' reports have been presented. He states that Germany favoured direct negotiation between State and State.

Only the obstitutely prejudiced will be deterred by the old fashioned manner of the story from recognising the really remarkable combination of dramatic interest, of careful and at times subtle charac-

Indian nationalism a modern movement, days in which educated Indians were divided into two parties those who adhered to the rather Eu ropeanised Bruhmo-Somaj and those who refused to admit any allegiance to non-Indian ideas. Gora is a protaggnist of the latter party; he is

Hindu first and last. The chief chunicters beside Gora are his mother, a picture of serene, untroubled wisdom; Binoy, a friend who wavers between the two parties; and Paresh Babu, of the Brahmo Somaj, and his family. By an irony of which we are not sure that he grasps the full implications Tagore makes Gora, the caste-believer the bigot, to be not an Indian at all, but an Irish foundling baby, adopted at the time of the Mutiny ov the childless Anandamoyi. So the young zealots of Hinduism, volatiles infirmitely talkative, emotional, impulsive, are led by one of the hated rice, while India is more truly represented by the natural clarity of Anandomayi and the experienced wisdom of Parech Babu. The reader might gather nothing of Tagore's convictions except that he hates bigotry and ignorance. He exhibits a sly, pleasant humour in some of the incidents—as the abaurd reception made for Gom, after his imprisonment, by the zealots of his party; in the account of Gora's and Bingy's entanglements with the exactness which leaves nothing to ever, has been open to doubt. Interesting Legal Debate.

Secretary for Chinese Affairs (the Hon, Mr. A. E. Wood) to the calling of his Assistants (Mr. J. H. B. Nihill) as a witness in a rents case heard in the Summary Court formed the subject of an interesting legal discussion before Mr. Justice Compertz this morning.

The case is one which the landlords of certain premises in First Street are seeking to enforce a was begun a week or two ago Mr. H. C. MacNamara, for the plain- request of Captain D. To this an objection was entered by the S.C.A. on the ground that it would be prejudicial and injurious to the public interests if members of his staff were to be called upon to give evidence of matters which took place at the Secretariat.

Crown Solicitor Explains: The point was left over for argument and this morning, the Crown Solicitor (Mr. T. M. "The position," said Mr. Hazlerigg | include cargo to His Honour," "is this. Chamberlain. His Honour's Experience.

His Honour said that he could speak with some knowledge of the S.C.A.'s department because he was at one time connected with it. "Although," he said, "I was a very minor official I know that the prestige of the department clothed everyone in it." His Honour said that if Mr. MacNamara could prove an agreement which he said was binding it seemed a little hard if he was not allowed to prove it He (the Judge) should have thought that it would rather be helping than hindering the S.C.A.

Interesting Cases. Mr. Hazlerigg emphasised that the S.C.A. had no objection to the disclosure of the particular facts concerned in the present case. The point was that any official of his department might have to come forward and give evidence. There were, he proceeded to point out, two classes of case dealing with question. In one case knowledge of the fact itself was objectionable and in the other case it was the knowledge that the fact had been disclosed by a department that was objectionable. He mentioned that in one case in which the Asiatic Petroleum Company was concerned objection was successfully taken to the production of a certain document because it concerned a naval matter and would be injurious to the Crown. PEKING, March 4

In prefacing the publication of the Note from H.E. M. Fleuriau, French Ambassador to Peking, to the Waichiaopu regarding the Russian Concession at Hankow (the first report of which appeared in the har Eastern Times), the Rosta says, in connection with the official denial by the Waichiaopu regarding the French Note of March 29 to the Soviet Mission, that the French Legation communicated the Note to M. Karakhan through the French Military Attache:

M. Fleurian's personal courtesy, country.—(Courtesy of the "Daily but holds a different opinion Bulletin.") regarding this step of the French Legation. There is no doubt that. France, having sent a second Note, regarding Russo-Chinese relations, endeavours practically to obstruct a rapprochement between Russia and China.

The French Minister's Note the attention of the Chinese Gov-Russian Concession at Hankow. was originally part of the territory virtue of an agreement between China, France and Russia in 1896 it was divided between the French and Russian Concessions.

"According to general usages, the agreements thus entered upon cannot be modified without the consent of all the parties concerned. As early as October 8, 1920, the French Consul, 'on the strength of instructions received by his Legation, drew the attention of the Commissioner for Foreign Affairs to the matter, who probably communicated same to the Waichiaopu. The position of the Hankow Concession at Hankow cannot be changed without the consent of the French Government. Therefore, beforehand make reservations regarding all stipulations affecting the territories of the Russian Concession at Hankow which could take place between China and Russia without the French Government being consulted."

The Waichiaopu's denial was given on the morning of April 2, and the Far Eastern Times carries to-day a statement by the Secretary of the Waichiaopu to the effect that M. Fleuriau personally handed the above Note to the Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs on the evening of April 2.

INDIA'S NEEDS.

BOMBAY, April 5. Passengers by the "Naldera." which sailed yesterday included Sir Roderick Jones, Chairman of Reuters, who is returning to England after completing a seven months' tour of the United States, Canada, the Far East and India.

He has been travelling in India for the past six weeks, during which time he was the guest of the Viceroy at the Vice Regal Lodge, Delhi, for a fortnight.

Sir Roderick declined to be interviewed on the Indian situation, saying it was far too complex and delicate for the opinion of a casual traveller to be worth anything. He, however, endorsed the statement recently made by Sir Mohamed Shafi, a member of the Viceroy's Council, that what were most required in India at the present time were, on the one side patience, and, on the other sympathy and imagination-

ANGLO-AMERICAN POLICIES

Shanghai, April 4. At the annual meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce held last'evening, the Report dealt comprehensively with various subjects of American commerce in China.

On the subject of Anglo-American relations in China, the Report says that the Washington Conference had demonstrated that the United States and Great Britain stand on practically the same ground from the standpoint of their policies in the Far East. It these Governments are in agreement, the same spirit should be carried out by the private citizens of both countries in China. #### MOTOR SHIPS.

The advantage of increased cargo-carrying capacity, which is obtained by installing oil engines in ships instead of steam machinery, is well instanced in a comparison published in this month's Motor Ship between motor vessels and steamers of exactly-similar dimensions, and engine power. The ships in question, which have recently been built, are 400 ft. in length, and have a speed of about II knots, all being engaged on the Eastern run. It is found that whereas the motor ship carries sufficient fuel in double-bottom tanks for the round voyage from Europe to the East, and back, even if the steamer fills all its reserved bunkers at a European port (in order to obtain coal at its lowest price) it will only just reach its Eastern destination. By doing this, the cargo-carrying capacity is about at | 950 tons less than that of the motor ship—a large percentage of the total deadweight capacity. Sydney, April 4.—The war- berlain's Cough Remedy is just what ship "Dragon" is towing the you ought to take for bronchial influence

VOLUNTEER INSPECTION.

The training season now closing. has been successful and has included the annual camp at Lowu. during which the Corps competed. for the Kirkpatrick Reconnaisance Cup, the result of which is expected to be announced shortly. The Musketry Challenge Cup was won this year by the Artillery Company, which had a full 100 per cent. of points.
